Summa Theologiae

The most extensive work of Thomas Aquinas, attempting to give in the form of the scholastic method of philosophizing a complete theological survey of the divine, human, and natural worlds. Its chief contents are derived from the famous "Book of Sentences" collected from the Christian Fathers by PETER THE LOMBARD

1225-1274

and classified after the manner of ABELARD into affirmative and negative statements. This work of Aquinas is one of a hundred similar expositions that exist in manuscript and many of them in print.
